Introduction:

At the very early beginning of our lives as doctors, the house-officer training years are very valuable. Not only we gain clinical training but also we gain attitudes, soft skills. As doctors, we should know how to avoid errors, how to organize our lives, how to manage our patients efficiently and effectively. Added to this, we should exercise our social accountability. To promote for the importance of the final years in medical schools and the 24 months of a house-officer, we designed this workshop with the hope that it will give everyone a chance to practice medicine professionally.

Objectives:

1) Cast a shadow on the importance of final years in medical school and the 24-months house officer period.
